THE CYBER STATE PROSPECT

ARCHETYPE

You aren't quite sure when you were hacked. One day they were just there, pinned to your consciousness: Rule zero—there is no Cyber State. Rule one—don't look for the Cyber State. Rule two—there are no rules. You rebooted. No change. You tried to reallocate all run-time memory. No dice. You even ran a potentially lethal shred routine but to no avail. The rules remained, like if they had somehow been etched into your digital matter. And that is how you knew what you were invited—challenged!—to become a Cyber State citizen. But what is a solid hologram to do? There are no gates to walk through, no guides to employ, no asylum to seek. So you decided to let the State come to you. You started taking on harder hacking targets, stealing more valuable goods and performing more elaborate heists. If the State had its eyes on you, you would prove your worth. That was six months ago, and things are now starting to heat up to a worrying degree.

Special: Built-in program: Analyze. Built-in tools: Hacker rig, Lock picks, Swiss Army knife. Your original task was that of a journalist, and you still appear like a classic newshound—with a fedora!

ARCHETYPE BOON

Implanted Bluffing keyword (software implant). Cyber State prospect.

†: Kin-gun (d6/5/silencer)
