THE LAST SHUNSHA

ARCHETYPE

You are a trained and genetically designed professional companion. With about 700 years of experience, you have developed it into art: to get to know your client and form a deep and fulfilling bond with that person. You entertain—sure!—and perform services and try to please, but it is more than that. You can give advice, serve as a moral compass, protect and ultimately be the best friend your client never had. If you had been designed for war, your title would have been an aide de camp, and if you had been designed for high society, you would have been a butler or chamber maid. But you were designed for the much wider and profound application: Life. And so you are a Shunsha, and a damned good one too! Now, is there anyone around that needs your services? Preferably someone who is going some place interesting!

Special: You have a long neck and huge eyes.

†: a Kalai is an instrument similar to a zitar.

ARCHETYPE BOON

If you space your client, you can communicate with that person as per the formula Send Thought, and you may detect that person as with the formula Detect Presence (both at the designated H-costs).
