THE SCI-FI WRITER

ARCHETYPE

You are the kind of writer that simply can't stay at home but needs to find your story, your characters and your descriptions somewhere out there. "A Forest of Primes," "The Zyu Virus," "Research Station Zotusk"—those are novels made from the good stuff, which is also the hardest kind to find. You need to be willing to a) travel and b) get your hands dirty. You have done your fair share of both, and as a consequence, you are an expert at typewriter repair and have extensive knowledge of Zira-Kaan geography and culture. You have also made a few enemies in places where you are no longer welcome. This is as it should be. What troubles you more is that recently, some of your stories have turned out to be closer to the truth than you would like.

ARCHETYPE BOON

You start with Reputation 4 and have a renewable Gunta fan-coin that can be used for social rolls with readers who know who you are. You can always repair any typewriter, as long as the parts are still there.
